Today, 4th December, we have the children from the Leigh Memorial Sunday School with us and we are so excited. A special welcome for you all! We also want to welcome Caitlin Scott, the new Chaplain at the Children's Hospital. It will be an exciting and fun day.

Elections for the Congregation will occur next Sunday, 11th Dec. There are positions for Elders and congregational representatives so if you think someone has the gifts and skills to be in one of these positions then please complete a nomination form available in the foyer. You will also see a list of the current elders and congregational reps on the wall near the name badge table.

Angel Tree presents for children with a parent in gaol are purchased and wrapped and under the tree. Special thanks to Sue and Lorna who went shopping and wrapped the presents. We will give them out soon with a hamper, to the children and their family. Thanks to Karen for co-ordinating this again and for all who do this important work on behalf of the congregation.

We are starting to collect money and food for the Parramatta Mission Christmas Hampers. Please check the newsletter for the kind of goods to bring. They can be left in Rev Christine's office and she will take them to North Parramatta where they are being packed. The money will be used to fill in the gaps of the hampers. If you would like to assist in packing hampers then please contact Rena Shlemun 9891 2277.

UnitingWorld has provided a set of cards, calendars and others gifts to assist others in different parts of the world. There are catalogues on the table in the foyer and a table will be set up for people to purchase the different gifts. In return for a 'donation' you receive a card an envelope which can be sent to someone for Christmas, meanwhile the donation goes to make a difference in others' lives. For example you could donate some money for some chickens or school supplies or for beehives. The display will be available for the next few weeks. There is only one calendar left and it has been reduced to $20.

Isaiah 11:1-10

1 A shoot shall come out from the stump of Jesse, and a branch shall grow out of his roots. 2 The spirit of the Lord shall rest on him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of the Lord. 3 His delight shall be in the fear of the Lord. He shall not judge by what his eyes see, or decide by what his ears hear; 4 but with righteousness he shall judge the poor, and decide with equity for the meek of the earth; he shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he shall kill the wicked. 5 Righteousness shall be the belt around his waist, and faithfulness the belt around his loins. 6 The wolf shall live with the lamb, the leopard shall lie down with the kid, the calf and the lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them. 7 The cow and the bear shall graze, their young shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. 8 The nursing child shall play over the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put its hand on the adder's den. 9 They will not hurt or destroy on all my holy mountain; for the earth will be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea. 10 On that day the root of Jesse shall stand as a signal to the peoples; the nations shall inquire of him, and his dwelling shall be glorious. NRSV Translation

Reflection

In this season of Advent, a season that most people use to prepare for Christmas, Christians give this an added dimension as a season of preparation for the celebration of the coming or advent of Jesus the first time, the future coming of Jesus at the end of time, and the coming of Jesus through his Spirit in the lives of people today. The Bible readings, like the one from Isaiah provide a vision of a world transformed, in which the lamb and the wolf lie down together rather than one devouring the other.

Thursday I spoke at Granville High about white ribbon day. One speaker spoke of a vision of a time when there is no domestic violence in Australia. On one level that may seem a far-fetched vision, yet we need such visions to motivate us to work towards that goal. Who among us would reject the notion of a domestic violence free Australia, or a homelessness free Australia, or a suicide free Australia? Maybe this won't happen until the end of the world, but that should not stop us from working today to move towards these visions.

It is the season of AGM's. PM's was held last Saturday. Most community AGM's these days include a guest speaker, the three I have attended this past week were no exception. Karen Burns, our CEO of UnitingRecovery, UnitingHope and UnitingHousing, spoke at ours. Karen spoke about gambling, the issue, the impact, and some solutions that PM is engaged in. At the end of the AGM those present donated $205 to our PM gambling services.

Karen asked the question: Have you ever tried to change a habit (diet, exercise, lose weight, or give up chocolate) give up something or take something up? Easy or hard? Lapses? Of course, we all know how hard it is to give up a habit; to make change in our lives, and this awareness might give us appreciation of the degree of magnitude of a person giving up gambling. In 2012, seventy percent of Australians gambled, 91% of all gamblers use the pokies, ¾ of all gambling or about $12 billion put through pokies, 500,000 Australians at risk of or problem gamblers, a social cost of problem gambling of 4.7 billion, and on average $21,000 per person gambled. A gambler could lose $1,500 per hour on pokies. Sometimes people are taken to hospital with dehydration because they won't stop gambling to have a drink at the casino, or urinary tract infections from not going to the toilet. Peak age group is 18-24. People who gamble are 6 times more likely to be divorced, 4 times more likely to smoke, and children of problem gamblers are 10 times more likely to become a problem gambler.

PM provides gambling counselling in various locations across Sydney, working with Wesley Legal services, because problem gambling usually leads to financial and legal issues. PM screen people for likelihood of problem gambling. We measure a person's level of gambling. We obtain a history of gambling, issues, also deal with consequences e.g. homelessness. We check for underlying issues: depression, mental illness or childhood trauma. We use cognitive therapy, where necessary, medication. Anti-depressants might help someone to engage therapy. We see the family as well. Gambling is often an issue of loneliness, and on that Karen used the term: Suicide is death by loneliness. In attending to the person, may need to attend to relations, assist people have live relationships rather than an electronic life. The antisocial person might gamble on line, compared with a social person who will go to a club. Women start gambling later in life, usually after divorce and bereavement, and pick it up very fast, compared with men who start earlier, and slowly develop the habit over years. It may take someone several times, with relapses before giving up. Problem gambling ads in the media increased the number of people accessing assistance, but these ads have now stopped and the numbers seeking assistance have declined. So something we can all do is raise awareness, and if we had the resources, run ads in popular media.

At the Western Sydney Community Forum AGM, Jen Armstrong, NSW woman of the year, spoke of being a victim of domestic violence. A turning point was a pamper pack given by an anonymous person that showed her someone cared. She started Beauty Clinic, which collects and distributes pamper packs to women.

Individuals can make a difference, a community working together can make a tremendous difference in realising a society in which everyone can thrive.

Blessings, Keith Hamilton
