WEEKLY REFLECTION

Pentecost 18C, 2022, Lk 17. 11-19

Cast Out by the Outcasts

Father Andrew Marr

Benedictine Monk, Episcopal Church

Jesus encounters the ten lepers between Samaria and Galilee. Luke often uses geography to point to a spiritual landscape and this is a particularly apt example. Jesus meets ten marginal people in a marginal space. The broader geography is that Jesus has "set his face" to Jerusalem, the center of meaning and power, where he will be crucified.

But some outcasts are cast out more than others. One of the lepers was a Samaritan who would presumably be marginalized by his marginal companions. Sort of a double whammy. In this marginal place, Jesus tells the lepers to go to the center of power, to the very people who have declared them unclean, for validation that they are clean. I can't help but suspect that Jesus was being sarcastic, grumbling at the lepers to find out how they really want to be "healed." When they suddenly find themselves clean, only the marginalized Samaritan returns to Jesus, who is still standing in the marginal space. That the other nine would go straight to the priests, at the center of power, is the strongest indication of how the Samaritan was treated by them. The Samaritan was healed, not only of leprosy, but of the social and religious system that required that some people be declared unclean so that others can be "clean." This is the healing that the other nine former-lepers miss out on.

Jesus and marginality come up so many times in the Gospels, ... we need to wake up and really listen. Surely the Gospels hammer this theme so many times because we need to be healed of being hard of hearing. This story prompts us to reflect on what we do when we find ourselves in marginal positions, having been cast out and declared unclean in some way. Do we band together with other outcasts in a constructive way? Or do we band together in resentment at the establishment? Does our little outcast group amount to a mini-establishment with people divided between clean and unclean? Do we run back to the establishment that exiled us if we get a chance to do so?

That only the Samaritan returned to Jesus to thank him raises the question of what causes gratitude and what hinders it. I suggest that a system that divides people between clean and unclean inhibits gratitude. When we live with this kind of mindset, we inevitably feel entitled to our advantages and delude ourselves into thinking we have earned them. We also inevitably feel that lepers have "earned" their marginalization. If returning to the center of power is what we want, then gratitude is the last thing we feel if we manage to do just that. Of course, the Samaritan had to advantage of not having the same option of going to a priest to be declared clean as his fellow lepers did. Being cleansed wasn't enough to take him out of the margins. Remaining in the margins gave him the opportunity to give Jesus another look and let Jesus be the one who decides if he is clean or not. Giving Jesus this sort of authority is an exhilarating thing to do. It is also dangerous. Jesus just might tell us that not only is each one of us clean, everybody else is also clean and we have to live without our lepers.

PCUC VOTE – 23 OCTOBER

When we gather on Sunday 23 October, a special time will be allocated for the “vote” regarding the ‘Parramatta City Uniting Church’ or PCUC (i.e.. the provisional name for the coming together of our regional UCA congregations into ‘one’ – while still worshipping at various sites and retaining some individual programs and site-specific goals). The congregations involved in the PCUC vote are Leigh Memorial, Leigh Fijian, Westmead and Northmead and Parramatta Centenary.

The proposition to be voted upon is as follows:

It is proposed that the Leigh Fijian, Leigh Memorial, Northmead, Parramatta Centenary and Westmead congregations of the Uniting Church in Australia, having listened faithfully to one another, join together as one entity (to worship at various sites), on the basis that this is in the best interests of the mission of the Church, its worship, witness and service.

You will be asked to indicate whether you agree or disagree with this proposal. Please note that the vote will be a secret ballot and will be open to members or members in association who are present and voting in person only. Uniting Church meeting procedures do not permit any form of absentee or postal voting and Zoom will not be available for this purpose. It is important ahead of the vote that we have our membership rolls up to date, so a process to facilitate this is underway. Forms providing for affirmation of membership (or membership in association) will be available at church or may be emailed to you. Any questions about the PCUC may be directed to David, Fiona, Jan or Sosi. Please keep an eye on the newsletters for further updates.

WORSHIP @ LEIGH MEMORIAL

We look forward to seeing everyone at Leigh this Sunday, 9 October @ 9.30am (Onsite + Zoom) with Rev John Barr. Next week's 16 October service will be led by Rev Ben Gilmour.

SPECIAL EVENTS – OCTOBER

** Sunday 23 October – 9.30am: Worship @ Leigh + PCUC Vote. NB: Those voting must confirm their membership status and be physically onsite (no postal or zoom voting available).

** Sunday 30 October – 9.30am: Combined PCUC service & Brunch at Leigh Memorial.

PASTORAL NEWS

Our warm support remains with members who are facing health and other challenges at this time, and all are firmly in our thoughts and prayers. Mae is improving and has been moved to a rehab ward, and both she and Beverly are continuing to value everyone's kind communications and prayers. Please note that contact numbers for the ministry team are included in the newsletter.

THANK YOU & FUTURE BLESSINGS

It's with sadness but sincere gratitude and fondness – that we farewell Darlene and Neil McGrath, who have transferred their membership to a church closer to home in Liverpool. Health and logistical considerations have necessitated the change, and we pray that the weeks and months ahead will include a consolidation of new friendships and connections, and much happiness. Both Darlene and Neil have been valued contributors to our congregation over an extended period. Among their many involvements, Darlene has served on leaders' teams, plus various organising committees and women's groups. Neil has served as our Church Librarian and on the Heritage Committee. Both have provided unqualified pastoral, prayerful and practical support to others, and have given generously of their time in the interests of the greater good. They will be missed. Prayers of love, thanks & ongoing support into the future Neil & Darlene – from all of us at Leigh and throughout the Mission.

MINI BORROWING LIBRARY

Leigh Memorial is trialling a new “self-serve” ‘Borrowing Library’ in the Leigh Memorial vestibule, which is available to members on Sunday mornings. Those wishing to take a book home are asked to record their name & chosen book on the clipboard provided. The selection of books will include a wide range of topics from the collection held in our main Library (which is currently closed) – plus some donated books. Please help by bringing borrowed books back on time. Happy reading!

CENTENARY COURTYARD – GARDEN PROJECT

“Calling all garden experts!” Jan D is seeking to revitalise the courtyard garden at Centenary and needs help in selecting and planting plants. Please call Jan on mob: 0423 057 616 if you have some ideas or would like to lend a hand.

HIMMI’S MEMORIAL

For those unable to join the livestream, Himmi’s recent funeral service included a powerpoint with some lovely photos of his time at Leigh. Eulogies were given by Himmi’s son Michael – a pastor with Wesley Mission – plus his nephew, grandson, and brother, Raymond. During his speech, Raymond shared Himmi’s mother’s favourite saying: “Never forget God and God will never forget you” – something that the family lived and worked by. A tribute was also paid to Himmi’s carer, Maz, who had accompanied him to our services in recent months. Many interesting facts about Himmi emerged during the eulogies, including that he and his family were transported from New Guinea to the safety of Sydney by the US airforce during WWII, and that he was a very gifted radio and TV technician in his younger years – as well as a lifelong tennis enthusiast. Thanks again Himmi – ‘Well Done, Good and Faithful Servant’ (Mathew 25: 21) – and ongoing prayers for the Tang family.

PM HERITAGE COMMITTEE NEWS

The Heritage Committee was recently contacted by a descendant of Rev Daniel Draper, who served at Parramatta between 1835 and 1839. Rev Draper was an important figure in 19th century Wesleyan Methodism in Australia. A Draper family member from Melbourne had recently visited St. John’s cemetery and noticed the plaque that Parramatta Mission installed earlier this year at the Catherine Leigh gravesite – which also marks the burial place of Rev Draper’s first wife, Sarah Draper and their baby, Josiah;

On Saturday 15 October @ 11.00am, Liz will be providing a free walking tour of the Rev Walter Lawry Memorial Park (the Old Wesleyan Burial Ground) in Grose Street, North Parramatta – inc. a casual overview of the individual histories of the PCUC congregations. Please BYO hat, plus a chair or rug to sit on, and snacks/drinks. Registrations are required for this tour. Please message Liz by 14 October on 0409 395 916;

The Heritage Committee wishes to thank member Neil McGrath, who has retired from our committee after 12 years – during which time he contributed greatly to PM’s heritage research and conservation through his personal interests in church history and genealogy. Thanks Neil for your excellent care and commitment. Our prayers are with you.

Sharing the Hospitality of Jesus Christ

Sunday 9th October 2022 – 9.30am – ON-SITE

This Sunday Pastor Fil will lead us in Worship – thank you for your leadership, Fil and we look forward to hearing from you.

Pastor Sarah led the Communion service last Sunday – it was a lovely service with Don Haddon playing a collection of hymns on the piano and members having a great sing along worship time. Thank you to both.

Please remember that your attendance on 23rd October will be highly appreciated as that is when a majority vote on the name of our combined Churches as “PCUC” will be taken. To vote you must be a “member” of the church – please see Jan or Lorna after service this Sunday to check your status if unsure.

Zoom difficulties in broadcasting Church Worship are being sorted out – it may be some time till we get back on as there will be a new computer for Westmead organised by Synod. If you are unable to attend Sunday worship at Westmead, you may follow the link to the Northmead Church Service Jan sends out each Saturday evening or join into the 9.30am English service at Leigh Memorial.

MEDIA RELEASE

Church welcomes much-needed $500m response to Ice Inquiry

In announcing its response to the Ice Inquiry, the NSW Government has ignored key expert evidence about how to end the ice epidemic, unable to get the much-needed reforms through its own cabinet.

Uniting NSW.ACT General Manager Advocacy and External Relations Emma Maiden welcomed the response but emphasised that further action is desperately needed.

"The announcement of $358million for increased treatment, particularly in rural and regional areas, is a welcome relief," Ms Maiden said.

"This is a key element of the Fair Treatment campaign Uniting leads and we welcome the Government's delayed acceptance of the need for a dramatic increase in treatment funding.

"It is tragic that hundreds of thousands of people have been turned away from health services for alcohol and drug problems since the Ice Inquiry report was handed down. This has been exacerbated by the impacts of the COVID pandemic.

"With the Government's response taking 30 months, it is imperative the Government moves quickly to implement this announcement. Time is of the essence."

Ms Maiden said the NSW Government announcement on increased diversion is also welcomed.

"The Ice Inquiry's recommendations could not have been clearer. The current policing-based approach to drug use is not working. We need diversion, at the very least, to save lives and connect people to treatment when they seek it," Ms Maiden said.

"The announcement on diversion is only in principle, has $400 fines and only offers two chances to change behaviour. That risks excluding the people with more serious drug dependency and who will benefit most from a non-policing approach to their behaviour."

"A large part of the reason why people with drug dependency don't reach out for help sooner is because of the criminal consequences of drug use. It's also the reason people don't tend to disclose their drug use to family, friends, or health professionals. This is why a better diversion approach is needed."

The Ice Inquiry cost over $10 million and the final report had over 1300 pages and 109 recommendations. The public told their stories to the Inquiry all over NSW, including in Lismore, Nowra, Dubbo, East Maitland, Broken Hill and Moree.

The police submission to the inquiry supported diversion.

The community similarly supports non-criminal responses to personal drug use. The National Drug Strategy Household Survey shows 78 per cent of Australians support this.

"Close to our heart is that people be treated with dignity and respect, including people who use drugs," the Moderator of the Uniting Church (NSW and ACT), the Rev. Simon Hansford, said.

"Our drug laws are based on stigmatising and outdated ideas, not modern medical facts, and evidence. People who experience drug dependency are shamed and dehumanised when they should be offered life-saving connection.

"We need to have a more honest, open and ongoing conversation about alcohol and other drugs. Our current laws create harm by driving people away from seeking and finding the support they need."

Uniting NSW.ACT is the social justice and welfare arm of the Uniting Church and has spearheaded the Fair Treatment campaign for fairer drug laws and has been arguing for increased treatment services, particularly in rural and regional areas, for over four years.

It's been over 30 months since the Government's own Ice Inquiry handed down its Report. The following recommendations from the Special Inquiry into Ice have been rejected by the NSW Government, with little evidence to back up the decision.

- Decriminalisation
- Allow more medically supervised drug consumption rooms
- Pill testing
- Stopping drug detection dogs at music festivals
- Prison drug health programs and needle exchange
