Parramatta City Uniting Church
inc. Parramatta Mission, with its values of Grace, Inclusion, Dignity, Faith & Hope.

Parramatta City Uniting Church acknowledges that we worship, work, witness and serve on the land of traditional owners, the Burramattagal clan of the Darug people. We pay respect to the original custodians of the land, and acknowledge elders past and present, and emerging leaders.

Weekly Reflection
Pentecost 11A, 2023
Matthew 14: 22-33

SINK OR FLOAT?

Rev Andrew Prior

The realm of Heaven is a treasure for which you would sell everything you have. We may glimpse it in that contradictory community called church. where some people bear great fruit, and some seem more like weeds. But the weeds are allowed to stay. Tiny like a mustard seed, the realm of Heaven grows to shelter people of all sorts. It corrupts the way of the world, leavening its horrors. The kingdom of Herod is luxurious and exclusive, but deadly. Full of fear and insecurity, it abuses and kills. Herod kills the last of the great prophets before Jesus.

But Jesus takes his disciples to a desert place where, despite the grief of one more flight from the Herods, the realm of Heaven bursts in with food left over. It feeds five thousand men, plus women and children; the number for the Torah. Twelve baskets are left; the number of tribes in the restored Israel. In a place where there is no luxury, the realm of Heaven is a place and space of plenty. It includes everyone. It gives without hesitation until people are filled.

Does Matthew's church sees itself here? After the feast Jesus leaves his disciples and goes up the mountain to pray. There's a hint of Moses in his actions, and even a foretaste of The Ascension, when the church is left without his physical presence.

Before leaving he sends them— he compels them— to cross the sea without him. He sends them out over the deep where all kinds of unfathomable uncertainties and evils lurk. He sends them into the world.

[It is Jesus who dismisses the crowds without the disciples, which might have its own message for those of us who are keen to control the church, or shepherd it too closely.]

Matthew's church is like the disciples, feeling on their own, battered by the waves, until the early morning. It's long enough to have any bravado about "living the realm" thoroughly doused. By the fourth watch of battering cold, even the kind of fierce joy that sometimes comes from doing God's work well in the storm, is replaced by realisation that this storm, erupting out of Herodian depths, may drown us.

When Jesus appears to the boat of the church he seems to be of the same order as all the other terror which threatens their life! He does not come in the way we expect.

But Peter understands. In a moment of transcendence Peter sees that all this terror is actually the path of the realm. This is the Way! We are not mere nothings in our mercy, and compassion, and feeding, and crying for justice. In a perspective we only dimly see— which we often lose sight of— we are facing down principalities and powers, and the weapons of Herod, and are being the realm of Heaven.

If this is true, he cries, call me out of the boat. If this is the realm, I will do more. And he begins to sink.

Preachers often say "he took his eyes off Jesus." The text does not say that; only that he saw the wind and was frightened. Others say the point is that he cried out to Jesus, and Jesus saved him and took him into the safety of the boat.

I think that when we get out of the boat we will sink. The realm of Heaven is not a solo effort. We belong in the boat. Even Jesus does not walk across the sea with impunity. Herod and Pilate will hang him from their mast.

Yet Jesus also calls us out of the boat. Sometimes there is a service to be done which means we go alone. The boat may follow. Or we may even do what is needed and walk back to the boat! But the story that is remembered is the story where we sink. Is this the default for discipleship? Have I fed the hungry, given drink to the thirsty, welcomed the stranger, clothed the naked, cared for the sick, and visited those in prison? (Matthew 25:31-46) Or have I pre-empted the angels of God and torn up the weeds (Matthew 13:29) uprooting all around?

And most of all, have I been at the seat of power in Herod's kingdom, killing, excluding, silencing the prophets? Or am I sinking, crying out to the Christ, scrambling for the leaky boat which is struggling through the waves toward the realm of Heaven? Because if I am warm, safe, and comfortable in life, floating along in the seat of power, maybe I am in the wrong boat. Or just a barnacle on its bottom; a weed.

I'm not a boat person, so this is not a story I relate to all that well. I'm more for the desert.

It is also a story to be claimed, not a story to be imposed. To say to someone that they should see Jesus walking on the water in their particular storm is to use the gospel as a weapon against them. It is an abuse. If Paul felt like all things worked for the good for him, well, great. He has no right to tell me that as I am sinking, and I have no right to tell you. If, however, you feel a hand grasp you, hold on tight!

Sharing the Hospitality of Jesus Christ

Sunday 13th August 2023, 09.30am

We will gather in Worship today with Pastor Fil leading us – a warm welcome to you, Fil and we look forward to hearing from you.

Last Sunday, it was a pleasure to hear from Pastor Sarah who reflected on the consecutive stories appearing in the Gospel about John the Baptist's death and Jesus going away to a quiet place to reflect. Jesus had compassion for the thousands who were like "sheep without a Shephard" that had followed Him. Sarah placed the image of three types of "tables" in Life – the first of death, destruction and depravity where things are done disregarding God, the second the table of the Eucharist where God sets an example and invites to acknowledge and take part in knowing Him, the third table, the table of breaking, sharing and multiplication of gifts He has bestowed on us, that we are still finding out about. Thank you, Sarah, for your beautiful reflection.

We uphold those in prayer, who are in need of strength and support, especially right now – May God grant healing, strength, love and peace to all.
